A Lancaster County man died while on vacation in Mexico. His body was found in waters off Cancun.

Robert Huang was a physician's assistant for the Lancaster Orthopedic Center. Staff there says they are still processing his death.

Mexican news reports say Huang's body was spotted in the ocean by either a jet skier or someone on the beach.

Rescuers believe a strong current is to blame for his death. Huang studied at Penn State and Drexel.

He'd been with the Lancaster Orthopedic Group for about two years. Huang lived on West King Street and his landlord told us he was a very friendly man who always paid his rent early.

Huang is originally from Taiwan. He was on vacation with friends and had only been on the trip for one day before he drowned.
