Cozumel / Writing / BLACK GOLD.- An American tourist, identified as Steve Jhonatan, died here while being taken to a clinic after being rescued in critical condition after he was detected floating in the water when practiced snorkeling in the southern part of the island.

According to the first data collected, tourist died while being taken to the Hospital of the hyperbaric chamber for medical care, after he was rescued in critical condition in the vicinity of Chankanaab Park.

According to information, lifeguards who work in the area gave him first aid unfortunate tourists, when other visitors reported that they had detected his body floating near the place.

Reportedly, Jhonatan Steve was practicing snorkeling in the waters at Chankanaab Park, although they had not determined the causes that led to his death.

Note that a few days ago only, also suffered a similar accident a tourist from Canadian origin, even if it saved the life. With Quintana Roo Record information.
